— I received a copy of this book in exchange for an honest review. All thoughts and opinions are my own. This book is the second in a series. I'm not going to give too much away but the beginning of the book made me think of a movie called Scream. I think there is a book in the works, so I'm sure it will be out soon. There is a new group of kids at the old R.L. Stine house and they are looking into the incidents that have been going on in the town. I would definitely recommend this book for middle grade readers. This is also great for reluctant readers. I really enjoyed this book and I can't wait to see what happens next. Book Description: R.L. Stine and everyone he knows disappeared in a blinding light. A series of recent murders, in which a life was stolen from a house, has made people worry about who will be next. First came the pleasant knock on the door that set off the alarm at the Stine house. All of a sudden, Max, Zach, and Hannah—the Stine kids—were missing. The last thing they remember was their father closing his safe before bed. Only hours earlier, he had written down the combination in his favorite book, Monster Blood, for safekeeping. But when the safe was opened in the morning, the combination was gone. Then the monsters started to appear. The kids make their way to the Stine house, but the animals come in the windows, the doors open to find the adults missing, and the monsters start to appear. Is there a monster hunter in the family? Will the Stine kids be safe at the old house, or will they all be next? As I said, this is the second book in a series. I will not say any more. I do recommend that you read the first book first. I'm not sure if it is out yet, but it's in the library right now, and I've read it. It's really good, you should read it. It's still being sold as an ebook, but I can't find it on the library system here. One, two, three, four. It's a simple counting game. But for Hannah, it's a battle of survival. One, two, three, four. She knows exactly what will happen 82157476af
